The diagram shows a comparison of normalized runtime for different graph processing operations. The operations include Edge List, Reverse Edge List, Vertex Pull, Vertex Push, and Vertex Push Warp. The x-axis represents different stages or iterations, while the y-axis represents the normalized runtime. The bars indicate the performance of each operation across these stages.